CAUTION

On Friday, February 26, 2016, at approximately 10:25 am, an unknown male (hereinafter referred to as the robber) attempted to rob the Bank of America, located at 1340 Encinitas Boulevard., Encinitas, California, (San Diego County). At the time of the robbery, the robber waited in line until called by a teller. Once at the teller's window the robber presented a demand note written on a white piece of paper, demanding specific denominations. Before the teller could read the note, the robber made a verbal demand for money. The teller had difficulty understanding the robber's demands and after a period of time the robber exited the bank without any money. No weapon was observed and no injuries reported. A short time later an individual matching this same description is believed to be responsible for robbing the US Bank, 7730 El Camino Real, Carlsbad, California.
